SI MANNING

Si has had a long and varied DJ career. He grew up in West Country where the party scene was lacking - in 1988, Si decided to be part of the change that saw free parties put on in wooded areas and began both promoting and playing at these events.

The next 6/7 years was spent in Leeds playing at various venues such as Back to Basics, Bacchus and Think Tank amongst others.

He then needed a fresh challenge and moved to Spain, effortlessly gaining residencies in 2 clubs as well as guesting at the infamous Pacha alongside the likes of Roger Sanchez and Todd Terry. For the winter it was off to Andorra playing Surf Club with the likes of Brandon Block and David Gausa.

After a successful 4 seasons he moved to Gran Canaria where he gained a residency at the legendary Pacha along with a weekly foam party in a big top holding up to 800 party goers.

He moved home about 10 years ago and retired from DJing completely. He is now back, and once again, ready to share his love for music!
